

Cadillac Jack to Showcase New Technology and International Game Library at the SAGSE Exhibition in Buenos Aires

Game Library Includes New Class II Titles and Latin Bingo Games

DULUTH, GA. October 10, 2006 - Cadillac Jack demonstrates its commitment to the Latin American gaming market with a new international library of server-based, downloadable games on display at the SAGSE Show in Buenos Aires, Argentina on October 11-13. As a leader in the Class II gaming market in the United States and Mexico, Cadillac Jack has adapted its highly popular and versatile bingo game engine to meet the demands of the Latin American market.

During the show, Cadillac Jack will debut a sampling of its portfolio of more than 30 server-based, downloadable games available in both Spanish and English for the Latin American market. Based upon the Company's innovative server-based technology, all games may be quickly and easily downloaded from the game server to refresh the casino's game floor and provide maximum profitability. "Cadillac Jack is committed to providing the newest technology in game and system design," noted Wilmer Montes, Director of Business Development for Latin America. "Our Spanish language server-based games have already been received with tremendous enthusiasm and success in Mexico and we are excited to expand our offerings to all of the Latin American gaming audience."

The Company will feature its Class II Electronic Bingo games in multi-line 5 reel format, including popular game titles Dr. StrangeLuck, Lusty Devil and Football Star. In addition, Cadillac Jack will launch its new series of Latin-style Bingo games at the show. The new Latin Bingo games utilize either four or six bingo cards and offer players the option to purchase additional balls for the chance to win. New titles include Medieval Legends Bingo, Universal Bingo, Mellow Yellow Bingo and Carnival Bingo.
